

THE VERY LATEST FROM VICKSBURG.

Fighting from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday.

THE ACTION RENEWED ON TUESDAY.

But Few if Any Batteries Taken.

Gen. Sherman's Siege-Gun Shells Tarrow into the City.

Cairo, May 31, 1863.

The dispatch boat New-National, from Young's Point on Tuesday has arrived.

The fighting on Monday lasted from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m., when there was a cessation of hostilities to bury the dead.

The battle was renewed on Tuesday morning, but no particulars had reached Young's Point.

But few, if any, batteries had been taken.

Shells from Gen. Sherman's siege guns came over into the city, as can be seen from the fleet.

Gen. Banks' forces had not arrived.

Forty-four hundred prisoners are expected here to-night, and will be sent to Indianapolis.

Adj.-Gen. Thomas Eli at Louisville.

Louisville, Mich., May 31, 1863.

Adj.-Gen. Thomas arrived this afternoon from Memphis sick from exhaustion, and was carried at his own request to the City Hospital, where he is now under charge of Medical Director Hart, with a fair prospect for a speedy recovery.

From San Francisco.

[Special to the Merchant's Exchange and Newsroom, No. 32 and 32½ fine street.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Friday, May 29, 1863.

The steamer Sonora, Capt. Lapidge, arrived today from Panama with the New-York mails and passengers.

A fire occurred at Mayaville yesterday, resulting in the destruction of a stable and ten horses. The Pacific Hotel and a grocery store adjoining were partially demolished.

A destructive fire occurred in the town of Albany, Oregon, on the 23rd inst. Loss, $17,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Saturday, May 30-32 d.m.

The steamer Brother Jonathan arrived today, bringing $120,000 in treasure from Oregon, and $18,000 from British Columbia.

[The above dispatch came through in last hour.]

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31, 1863.

The General Subscription Agent reports the sale of Five-Twenties yesterday, to the amount of $334,600, at the various agencies in New-York, Boston, Philadelphia, and the West. The total amount of sales during the week is $15,000,000; showing undiminished confidence among all classes in the power of the Government to command success in the military movements for crushing the rebellion.

IMPORTANT FROM VENEZUELA.

End of the Civil War—Compromise between the two Belligerent Parties—Projected Restoration of the Republic of Colombia.

The correspondent of The Exchange and News-Room, writes as follows, under date of Caracas, Thursday, April 26, 1863.

You will be gratified to learn that the tedious civil war which has dragged its uncertain drags along through so many years here, is at last concluded. The Federals had met with certain successes in the provinces of Coro and Barinas, which emboldened them to attack an outpost of Caracas on the morning of the 19th of April, from which they were repelled, falling back upon "Coche," where their leader, Anto Guzman Blanco, had established his headquarters.

In a day or two after this affair, it was ascertained through the British and French Consuls General that the Federals were disposed to treat for peace, and a meeting was therupon arranged between Gen. Blanco and the Secretary General, which resulted in an immediate suspension of hostilities, and the preparation of certain articles, which on being approved by the Government of Gen. Paes and by the Federal General-in-Chief, assumes the dignity of a "Treaty of Peace," as follows:

Pedro Jose Roca, Secretary General of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and Antonio Guzman Blanco, Commander-in-Chief of the Federal forces acting in these provinces, having agreed to an understanding, and being informed by the parties, that the present disastrous war, have made the first party in the name of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and the second party duly authorized by General Facon, Comd. of the Federal army, an agreement of peace is now to be made.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the war, and to avoid, under the present circumstances, a collision between the two parties, and settling their differences as far as possible, in the interest of the public, as is agreed that each of the deputies of each province and their substitutes (representatives) will be elected by the Government, and the other by General Facon, in representation of the Federal.

The Federal army recognizes the government of the Supreme Chief of the Republic and its substitute.

The Federal army will meet in Caracas thirty days after the exchange of the ratifications of this agreement.

The parties will be seated in their provinces, and each party to make its arrangements to close the